

SENATOR CAPPER MAKES LAST-MINUTE PLEA FOR SOLDIER BONUS

PASSAGE CERTAIN IN 48 HOURS

us go after the billions that the foreign governments owe us, collect the interest on it promptly, and pay it to our soldiers. There is no use disguising the fact that our international bankers want to wipe out this foreign debt. It will make their foreign securities that much stronger."

Capper's speech was delivered during the final hour of debate on the soldiers bonus bill.

Simmons Offers Amendment.

Senator Simmons (Dem.) of North Carolina, offered an amendment to the bonus bill providing for the payment of the bonus from the "interest received by the United States on the obligations of foreign governments."

If at any time the interest was not sufficient to meet bonus payments, the Simmons amendment would authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue certificates of indebtedness under the second liberty bond act to be redeemed from future foreign interest payments or by the sale of foreign bonds held by the Government.

STRIKING SHOP MEN HURL DEF AT EXECUTIVES

brotherhood spokesmen in Washington. These are:

- (1) No reduction of wages.
- (2) Armed guards employed in the shops of the strike to be confined to the shops themselves.
- (3) No compromise, modification, or new interpretation of seniority rights, regardless of the outcome of the shopmen's strike.
- (4) Assurance that only safe equipment will be used, and impaired rolling stock will be retired under orders from inspectors.

The railway executives were acquainted in New York with the desires of the brotherhoods and a majority of them signified their willingness to meet these conditions. It was learned today from official labor sources.

The brotherhood leaders, however, are not certain that the executives can meet the conditions outlined, especially as regards seniority rights. If the railway shopmen lose the strike, it was pointed out, and the dangerous precedent of losing seniority is established, what assurance can the railroads give the brotherhoods that the seniority precedent will not be used against them next, especially if such a precedent would be accepted and established by the Railway Labor Board.

Fear for Future.

It was apparent today that the powerful brotherhoods are torn between conflicting emotions, (1) to safeguard their own interests and avoid direct participation in the shopmen's strike, and (2) fear that

Schools And Theaters In N. Y. Hit By Coal Shortage

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Schools and theaters of New York will be closed with the first chilling weather of autumn and transportation lines will be crippled unless coal is procured within a few weeks.

These facts were announced at a meeting of business men summoned by Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert to consider the fuel emergency.

Unless coal stocks are replenished within a week or two a complete breakdown of traction facilities was forecast, Mr. Hulbert said.

Patrick Jones, superintendent of school supplies, told the conference the school shortage of fuel would cause 100 school buildings to close in October or November unless the bins are soon filled. This will throw more than 100,000 children out of school. The schools will open next month and hope for the best.

Three hundred theaters, including moving picture houses, are without fuel, it was announced. A recess was taken until Wednesday.

ACTRESS' STORY BLOW TO CLINE IN BERGEN CASE

in her hotel room at Saranac Lake. It was then, Hart said, that Cline decided on the dramatic ending.

"This moving picture director simply couldn't get out of the atmosphere and environment in which he had lived for years in the movies," Hart went on. "He decided to confront the deponent and outraged wife with the child, who, she said, had attacked her. He also planned to have her brothers present as witnesses and to have his young woman informant present also. It is possible that others were there. We shall find out."

"This is one of the most unique murder cases in history. It was performed in a motion picture setting. It is the logical consequence of the life led by the slayer. It makes it easier for us since we know the psychology back of it. There are more things in this murder than have appeared on the surface. They shall be brought out at the proper time, but this is no time to discuss them."

IRISH REBELS NOW MENACE DUNDALK PORT

Free Staters Strive to Clean Up Guerrilla Bands Working in Provinces.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—Republican irregulars were again menacing the port of Dundalk, in the northern part of County Louth, today, but the force was described as weak in strength and no fears were felt here of a movement southward against this city.

The Free Staters have redoubled their efforts to clean up the guerrilla bands in the provinces, but the work is difficult. The larger forces of irregulars have split up into small groups that are hiding in mountains and forests, making ambush attacks against the Free Staters and raiding towns.

A number of new ambush attacks against Free State troops were reported today from the provinces.

Richard Mulcahy, successor to Michael Collins as commander-in-chief of the Free State army, in paying tribute to his late predecessor said:

"The Irish people are sailing through seas filled with dangers, but the sleeper (Collins) lies smiling in the back of the ship of state. We are filled with the spirit which is the symbol of the last words attributed to Michael Collins—'Forgive them.'"

Cline Career Ranged From Theft to War Honors, Sister Says

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—"If Bergen had been sorry about what happened, this tragedy would never have occurred," said Miss Margaret Walz, Philadelphia's only policewoman, dance censor and sister of George F. Cline, charged with shooting and killing John Bergen, at Edgewater, N. J.

Miss Walz is prosecuted with grief at her home in Lansdowne, a suburb. Sobbing, she told of her brother's life, a record ranging from larceny to the highest military honors.

Cline's real name is Von Walz. He was born in Camden, N. J. Entering the German army at the outbreak of the world war, he was awarded the iron cross for his reckless bravery in obtaining photographs of enemy military positions.

He later entered the American army when this country entered the conflict and was given a major's commission.

"My brother adored his wife," Miss Walz said. "When I saw him in his cell he said he had sent for Bergen to ask him if the story of his relations with Mrs. Cline was true. My brother said he admitted the attack and sneered at him. From that on, my brother says, he does not remember exactly what happened. He just became wild-saw red, you know. He insisted the tragedy was absolutely unpremeditated, and I know he speaks the truth."

LOCAL ACTRESS SUES EX-MATE FOR BABY SON

Edith Hallor Brings Action in New York—Conduct in Hotel Denounced.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Love for her son, little L. Lawrence, Jr., has become the dominant note in the life of Edith Hallor, motion picture actress, formerly of Washington. She wants him back, and to fulfill this almost forlorn hope she sat before Justice Burr in special term yesterday while lawyers for her former husband, L. Lawrence Weber, manager of the Longacre Theater, prosecuted a pitiless examination of her turbulent affairs. With her was her present husband, Jack Dillon, a screen director.

The child, whom she kidnapped from his nurse in Central Park, played about the courtroom, gravitating between his estranged parents.

Meanwhile it developed that the mother had quarreled in California with Dillon and had at one time gone to a Los Angeles attorney to discuss arrangements for a divorce. Dillon was named by Weber as co-respondent when he obtained a divorce from Edith Hallor in 1920. She and Dillon were married last year.

The Broken Inkwell.

Soon after she returned to New York last winter, Mrs. Dillon registered as Edith Hallor, with her sister, Ethel, at the Hotel Laurent, 147 West Fifty-fifth street. There, according to the testimony of Eugene Fitzpatrick, elevator operator, and Stephen F. Dooley, night manager, she was frequently seen under the influence of liquor. Complaints about her conduct began the second night after her arrival, Dooley testified. "Then one morning after she had been warned about her conduct," he said, "she threw an inkwell at me. I kept a piece of the bottle."

The broken inkwell was presented in evidence.

When called to the stand Weber declared his former wife should not be given custody of the child, but said he wanted the boy to love his mother.

Prays for Mother.

"He prays for her every night," said Weber when questioned about his own conduct.

Q. Did you entertain young women at parties at your apartment? A. Occasionally.

Q. At one of these parties did the little boy lift a cocktail glass and say, "A toast to the pretty lady?" A. That's a lie.

Q. Isn't it true that you denied being the father of this child when, just before his birth, Miss Hallor sued you for breach of promise? A. No. Just the reverse.

Weber denied young women guests at dinner parties entered the rooms with him or his brothers.

Justice Burr ruled that the child remain in the custody of Justice Marquis at Buffalo, who is a guest at Weber's house, until the final decision is handed down. The case was continued until September 17.

Miss Hallor is the daughter of Policeman William Hallor, of the Second precinct.

SAFER TO LOSE RACE THAN WIN IN IRELAND

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It takes courage to ride a winner in some parts of Ireland, according to reports received here.

At a recent race meeting at Ballynashill, near Loughrea, two shots were fired at the horse that appeared to be winning. The horse and its rider escaped, but an innocent bystander was a victim.

BOYS GIVE SAVINGS TO FRYE RELIEF FUND

Kenneth (on the left) and Martin Jones, twelve and eleven years old, of 211½ Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who were so affected by their mother's recital of the difficulties faced by the family of Samuel Frye, murdered Seat Pleasant grocer, that they cleaned out their dime savings banks and gave every cent they possessed to the relief fund.

WIDOW GIVES $1 AS HER MITE TO AID FRYE FUND

Total of $45 Received for Day Includes $25 From E. F. Brooks Employees.

The Biblical widow's mite was not given with any kindlier feeling than that exhibited by a Washington widow today in contributing to the fund for the family of Samuel Frye, Seat Pleasant grocer, who was slain by a negro hold-up man.

Refusing to disclose her identity and signing herself merely "Another Widow," today's contributor added $1 to the fund with the wish that "I could give ten times that amount."

"The public should come forward and help to raise a nice fund for her," the widow's letter stated. "I don't think the people of Washington realize that winter will soon be here and that this poor family is facing misery and hardship."

One of the largest single contributions yet received came in this morning from "employees of the E. F. Brooks Company," $15. Fourteenth street northwest. It totaled $25, and helped swell today's contributions to $45, the largest in any one day since the fund was opened.

U. S. GETS OFF CHEAP ON PRICE OF GASOLINE

Flivver owners, dry your tears.

"The price of gas may look high at two bits or thereabouts a gallon, but compared to what the Antipodean motorist pays it's a mere nothing. In Austria, according to latest Department of Commerce reports, the price fixed by the Government is sixty cents a gallon. In July, 1918, it was 87 cents and in 1919 it was 82 cents."

GIRL FED BY TUBE FOR EIGHT YEARS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Jennie Kovanski, eleven years old, of this city, has not swallowed food in eight years. Her esophagus is entirely closed.

When she was three years old she underwent an operation for tonsillitis and since then she has not been able to swallow. She takes all her food in liquid form through a rubber tube in an incision in her stomach.

The trouble with the throat does not affect her breathing and she plays like other children. Physicians recently deemed it dangerous to operate.

RAIL DIFFICULTIES CUT OHIO STEEL PRODUCTION

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 29.—Transportation difficulties are hampering steel plants in the Youngstown district, and finished production is being curtailed. The coal situation is clearing, but because of the rail problem operations are going forward under a severe handicap.

Only three independent blast furnaces are busy in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys. The number of open hearth furnaces has been reduced to thirty from fifty-one, all operated by independents. James A.

U. S. WILL OPEN NEW EMBASSY AT RIO SEPT. 7

Most Beautiful Ambassador's Home and Office Faces Famous Harbor.

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The United States will officially open the world's most beautiful foreign embassy building at the opening of the international exposition at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, September 7.

In structure the building is dignified and typifies the best in American architecture. Facing the entrance to the harbor and celebrated bay at Rio de Janeiro the view of the building from its great, gray columned portico, is unsurpassed by any other part of the world.

Americans who have seen the new structure are especially proud of it because it indicates a new order of things and suggests the time American representatives in all countries will have official residences commensurate with the dignity and importance of this country.

Site Is Purchased.

The building itself testifies as to the achievement of the American commission to the Brazilian centennial exposition. The site of the building was purchased from Brazil through the commission. It will serve as the center of American activities in the celebration of 100 years of Brazilian independence and will then remain as the American embassy.

Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, of New York, the sole woman member of the American commission, returned a few days ago with an important report on the great South American gathering which has invited all the important powers of the world. Her report was officially presented to President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes.

The importance of the exposition as a means of interpreting the United States to the countries of South America was emphasized by Mrs. Livermore.

"My tour of Brazil showed me the complete lack of knowledge," Mrs. Livermore said, "on the part of both the United States and Brazil of the manners, customs and ideals of each other. The international exposition offers an opportunity for every American to not only acquaint himself more fully with the history of Brazil, but to aid in the task of acquainting South America with the United States."

"The United States Government was quick to join in the celebration of Brazil's century of freedom. All the Government departments, by act of Congress, are sending down exhibits. Five loads of exhibits are already on their way."

Open-Air Cinema.

"At the back of the beautiful American building there will be an open-air cinema theater. Through these motion pictures we will depict for Brazilians in language they can understand, namely, the eye of the life of the citizens of the United States."

"Every phase of American life will be shown. The colleges will send films, cities will reproduce their broad streets and important industrial works, educational groups will contribute pictures showing the history of the country."

A motion picture symposium has been compiled with educational and picturesque scenic views, calculated to leave a deep impression on the minds of the Brazilians.

Eighteen foreign countries are participating in the exposition.
